

Emilie Dubois – Founder, Impakt Scientifik

Emilie received her PhD in Cellular and Molecular Biology from Université Laval in 2018.

She trained in graphic design, communications and entrepreneurship before turning to visual scientific communications, and founding the IMPAKT Scientifik agency.

Today, surrounded by a great team, her mission is to help scientists and technology entrepreneurs make their projects shine.

Their secret? Powerful visuals and quality communication. Together, they develop training programs to improve scientific communication and mastery of digital tools.

At the same time, she sits on the boards of the Association des Communicateurs Scientifiques du Québec (ACS) and Science Expérience Éducation, which organizes the Lévisium festival.
